

ARTHUR DE BRA IS SPEAKER, SESSION OF COUNTY WOMEN

Connected With Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America

300 ARE PRESENT

Women's Clubs Have Fall Meeting and Flower Show at New Hope

(By Staff Correspondent)

NEW HOPE, Oct. 31.—"It's up to you to make us make the kind of pictures you want," Arthur DeBra, of the Public Relations of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., New York City, told women from every section of the county gathered for the fall meeting of the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday.

Three hundred club women attended the afternoon meeting in the Methodist Church, here, with the number at the morning session being slightly less. The New Hope Women's Club was hostess for the day.

Mr. DeBra, a most prominent figure in the public relations department of the organization with which he is affiliated, in his most enlightening and interesting discourse, showed his deep interest and knowledge of the motion picture industry.

"Whatever direction you women want motion pictures to go, that is the direction in which they will go," he likewise remarked. Then: "The responsibility is yours. As such as it is ours," he continued, as he told of the wishes of the producers and distributors to eliminate from films things degrading.

The idea so prevalent among certain groups and individuals that films which are not permitted to be shown in the United States are distributed abroad, was exploded by the New Yorker. This is not true, Mr. DeBra most emphatically stated, adding that if people would only realize that the biggest market for motion pictures is in the United States they would surely come to a conclusion that such a possible method of distribution would not be a paying one, even if the financial angle alone were to be considered. "There are counterparts of films shown abroad, this being necessary in most cases owing to difference in language needed in the talkies. The parts are taken by different actors and actresses in the counterparts, so that the films can be marketed in other countries, but the story and wording are practically the same."

"It isn't so important what you think or do individually as what you do collectively in regard to decisions on motion pictures," Mr. DeBra told the women. "Your action has more force when it comes from a group of representative women, and it registers with the folks who can do much to better the type of pictures that are made." He stated that the producers and distributors are constantly on the search for pictures that will be entertaining, different, and "right." "We climb into the boots of some other person's life when we view a motion picture. We peek into the souls of others and do the things they do." The one so closely related to the motion picture industry asked that the listeners keep in mind that there are all kinds of people to consider when pictures are made, and realize the problem that surrounds choice of pictures.

Recalling the late Thomas Edison's "peep-show," from which machine has grown the motion picture industry, the fourth largest industry in the United States, Mr. DeBra informed that the public nourished the "peep show." Among other information given was that there are more American motion pictures in foreign countries than those of other lands combined. Approximately 700 feature pictures are needed yearly, together with 2500 short subjects, in order to satisfy the "maw" of public demand. Theatres in the United States number 200,000, the rest of the world having a total of 50,000 show houses. "People create this demand," the club women were told, "and the producers satisfy this demand through the distributors." It was brought out by Mr. DeBra that there is hardly a place to which the producers and others associated with them do not go for picture "material." The classics of the literary world are made use of, as well as current books and short stories. Stage plays are also used as bases. "Our big problem is to have made a large number of pictures all of a different kind. All the arts of the world are put into a cosmopolitan art, given life, and it is called a motion picture."

As the address progressed the women realized more and more before the enormity of the gigantic industry.
Some time was given by the speaker

BANKS TO OBSERVE HOLIDAY

REBUKE THEM AT THE POLLS TUESDAY

RESORTING TO UNHEARD OF TACTICS, the opposition to the Republican Party in the county has adopted a last minute campaign of misrepresentation of the record and policies of the Republican Party in the county, scandalous attacks upon the highly respected candidates, and even slurs directed at the Judiciary.

To make these tactics even more despicable, the opposition has resorted, in a printed circular, to this last minute attack ANONY-MOUSLY—in such a way that no one can be held responsible for the misrepresentations and the scandalous statements contained in this literary effort ascribed to a mythical Taxpayers' organization.
No names of officers or other parties responsible are given.

No such desperate measures have ever been attempted by any political party in Bucks county—and the Republican voters—all self-respecting citizens regardless of party—should rebuke it by an overwhelming majority for the Republican candidates to show their resentment of such an unscrupulous attack which even includes the Judiciary, of which the people of Bucks county have had every reason to be proud.

Republican voters certainly, and all other citizens with respect for fair play and decency, should go to the polls Tuesday and vote the straight Republican ticket—not only as a REBUKE to these sinister and cowardly maligners, but because of the high type of citizens who are candidates on the ticket, the excellent record the party has made—wide open for inspection—and the misrepresentation of the splendid officials who have given Bucks county an administration of its affairs that has been noteworthy for its honesty, intelligence and progressiveness.

Under the guise of anonymity, the mythical organization circulating these printed accusations has attempted to appeal to prejudice and to arouse suspicion where none is warranted.

The best evidence of this is the disgusting attack on the Judiciary, which every one who is at all acquainted with county and court affairs has reason to regard with the utmost confidence and admiration because of the manner in which the affairs of the court are administered.

We have confidence that the people of Bucks county will easily see through this palpably unscrupulous and unwarranted attack.

As a rebuke to such tactics we appeal to voters to go to the polls next Tuesday and administer a rebuke which will emphatically show their disapproval of such disgusting political skullduggery.

Three Are Injured In Auto Crash in Fog

Three men were injured and another shaken up yesterday in a heavy collision of automobiles on the Bristol Pike at Wyeatsville. The injured men are: Melor King, 28, of Tullytown, recovering in St. Francis Hospital from a long gash of the scalp; William Swick, 40, of 36 East Hendrickson avenue, and Albert Robbin, 211 Anderson avenue, both of Morrisville. They were treated for lacerations of the face at Harriman Hospital.

Swick and Robbins were riding with William N. Davis, of Hill and Ohio avenues, Morrisville, toward Bristol when the mishap occurred.
Davis said the fog was very dense and that he had the headlights on his car burning. Davis was attempting to pass a truck when he crashed into King's car.

Fourteen stitches were required to close the gash in King's scalp. Swick and Robbins were taken to Harriman Hospital and after treatment returned to their homes.

Constable Andrew Thompson, of Morrisville, has summoned the drivers to appear before Justice of the Peace Nolan, in Morrisville, today to explain the crash.

GEORGE SCHOOL PROF. INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Truck Drags George M. Nutt's Car and Pulls Down
Wires

TRAILER STRIKES CAR

George M. Nutt, professor of mathematics at George School, Newtown, was injured when his automobile was struck by a truck early today, snapping a pole from its base on the Lincoln Highway at Oakford, near Langhorne.

Professor Nutt stopped suddenly to avoid striking a car which halted at the intersection with Bristol road.
The truck in the rear, operated by Claude L. Banning, eighteen, Federalsburg, Md., swung to the center of the road to clear a crash.

The truck cleared Professor Nutt's car, but its trailer caught the rear bumper and dragged the smaller vehicle 125 feet down the road where both hit the pole, which fell on top of the truck and car.

Professor Nutt was taken to Frankford Hospital, where physicians found he had a possible fracture of the right shoulder and minor injuries. He was alone in his car. Banning was arrested and fined $27.50 for reckless driving.

Telephone wires on the pole were torn down. Other wires carrying 4,400 volts were displaced, but missed the cars.

Edith Husen, 21, 2635 Westmoreland street, suffered loss of blood from a deep cut in her scalp sustained when the automobile in which she was riding left the Lincoln Highway at South Langhorne and crashed into a pole.

According to John J. Rooney, thirty, 6336 Torresdale avenue, Philadelphia, the car was a new one, which he was driving to break in. He was forced from the road by another car, he said.
The automobile climbed an embankment, turned ten feet high, into a cornfield, turned around and went down the embankment, striking the pole. No arrests were made.

ATTACKED BY BULL

While Maurice Londerbough, of the sixth ward, and Frank Londerbough, of Bath street, were exercising hunting dogs on the farm of Eugene Gerhart, Bensalem Township, they were attacked by an Ayrshire bull. Maurice Londerbough succeeded in climbing a tree but Frank could only get back of a small sapling which he expected every minute would fall from the ferocious maw of the animal.
Maurice for the tree top yelled to Mr. Gerhart for help and the bull's attention was attracted to him and Frank made his escape. Both men claim it was the closest call of their lives.

Last evening the Daughters of America, Council 58, held a business meeting and initiation in their lodge room of the F. P. A. Hall on Radcliffe street. Two new members of the lodge were initiated. Following this, a social hour and refreshments were enjoyed.

CLOSING SERVICES TO BE HELD TOMORROW BY METHODISTS WHO HAVE BEEN OBSERVING THE 143RD ANNIVERSARY OF CHURCH'S FOUNDING

District Superintendent to Visit Harriman M. E. Church on Monday Evening — Suburban Churches Prepare Programs of Interest for the Usual Sunday Services

THAT RADIO RELIGION

Now whether folks are Methodists,
Or Baptists; it's the same; Or whether they profess to faiths
Of any other name—
If they elect to stay at home,
To churches never go, Whatever be the creed they own, They've swapped for—Radio.

This Radio Religion may For shut-ins do a heap;
But for those well enough to go, There's little good to reap;
And whether folks are Methodists,
Or Baptists, here or there, No church on earth can be replaced
By "service"—on the air.

The closing day of anniversary week in the Bristol M. E. Church, marking the 143rd anniversary of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Bristol, and 35th anniversary of the present church, will abound in good things for the members and friends of the church.

At 9.45 a. m. the regular Sabbath School session will be in charge of Mr. Doron Green, superintendent.

At 10.45 a. m. Dr. George J. Burns, of Philadelphia, will bring the message.

At this service the following music will be presented: Organ prelude, "Sonata," Stewart; anthem, "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land," Stainer; offertory, "Offertory," Herzog; anthem, "I Saw in the Night a Vision," Estlin; solo, "Nailed To the Cross," Mrs.
Gladys Reed, of Scranton; postlude,
"March," Stern.

At 6.45 p. m. the Epworth League devotional service will be in charge of Miss Carrie Rapp. Topic, "The Hymns of the Church."

At 7.45 p. m. Dr. J. Perry Cox, secretary of the City Missionary and Church Extension Society of the Philadelphia Conference, will preach.

At this service Mrs. Elma Rogers will play the following: Prelude, "Angelus," Messenier; offertory, "Adagio," Gounod; and postlude, "March," Gaul.
The choir will sing, "I Will Sing of Thy Power," Sullivan; and, "More Love to Thee," Speaks.

"Wonderful services have been held throughout the entire week," Lut, in the opinion of the pastor, "the services of the closing hours of the anniversary week will far exceed anything that has previously taken place." Dr.
Burns and Dr. Cox are speakers of great ability, having held pastorates in some of the largest churches of the Philadelphia Conference. The large chorus choir has prepared an exceptional program for the entire day, so that a musical treat is in store for the music lovers of Bristol. The public is cordially invited to attend all services.

BERKSHIRES ATTRACTIVE IN AUTUMN SEASON

Delightful Region of England in Attractive Moods Now

OUTLINE AUTO ROUTE

Although the Berkshires are considered only a summer vacation playground autumn finds this delightful region of New England in one of its most attractive moods. The multicolored hues of its tree clad hills gay in their garb of turning leaves presents a delightful picture.

The Keystone Automobile Club has outlined an interesting motor journey through the beautiful Naugatuck Valley to the Berkshires that can be covered in approximately 500 miles.

"A delightful feature of the journey," says Russell B. Carty, representative of the club, "is a trip across the new George Washington Bridge, the longest suspension project in the world. The bridge, erected at a cost of $60,000,000 spans the Hudson River from Fort Lee, N. J., to New York."

From Bristol the tour leads through Trenton, leaving via Brunswick Ave., U. S. Route 1, which carries the travelers to Elizabeth where U. S. Route 9 is met and followed through Jersey City and northward along the Hudson River to Fort Lee.

With its elaborate system of approaches the new George Washington Bridge will be free of traffic congestion and an easy and speedy crossing is promised to 179th Street and Broadway in New York City. Across Manhattan by the way of Fordham Road and the Hutchinson Parkway the tour leads to Port Chester where a left turn carries the travelers over U. S. Route 1 along the shore of Long Island through Bridgeport to Stratford.

Here a left turn into state route 8 leads northward over a winding course through the lovely Naugatuck Valley. This was the journey used by the Indians in their journeys between the Berkshires and the Sound and it was over this highway that the Continental army of Washington marched in New England campaigns of the Revolution. At the village of Naugatuck heads the old Porter House used as a headquarters for the patriot leader. At Waterbury the travelers reach the pivot city of the valley in the heart of a world-famous brass center.
In the Mattatuck Museum here much of the town's Revolutionary lore is preserved. Northward through Thomaston and Torrington to Winsted some of the finest scenic regions in the east are passed.

From this point state route 17 is used to Canada to gateway to the Berkshires. Northward over U. S.
Route 7 the tour continues through Sheffield, Great Barrington, Stockbridge and Lenox to Pittsfield, all delightful Berkshire resorts. Side trips into alluring scenic regions set amid historic background can be made from any of these centers in the Berkshires. On the homeward journey the travelers can follow U. S. Route 7 southward to Danbury where a right turn into U. S. Route 6 leads to Bear Mountain Bridge. From here excellent highways wind through the hill regions of New Jersey and connect with main trunk roadways leading to the starting point of the tour.

BANDIT IS KILLED

Philadelphia, Oct. 31.—An unidentified bandit, brandishing a pistol as more than a score of patrons cowered in a restaurant here early today, was shot and almost instantly killed by a shot tore a hole in the man's head and he fell at the feet of a waitress whom he had threatened only a moment be-

BELIEVE CONDITIONS BETTERING

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—Belief that the financial crisis of the United States probably has been passed was expressed by high officials today as a result of a number of tendencies which were noted during the week.
Somewhat easier money conditions were indicated by the fact that the Government was able to obtain about

Grades at Bath Street School Have A Party

Hallowe'en was celebrated by the lower grades of Bath street school yesterday afternoon, with a most interesting program. At noon, the children of the first grade, wearing cat dressed-up, paraded around the various rooms of the building. Later, the children of the first, second and third grades, wearing all kinds of costumes, paraded in each room of the building.
The safety patrol was in charge of the parade. Then an entertainment by the first grade pupils was given as follows: Reading match; game of pinning a nose on the pumpkin; story of Hallowe'en; Indian dance; snake dance by pupils of the room; Hallowe'en song, "Pumpkins Melon"; song, "John Brown Had a Little Indian."

After taking part in the parade, the second grade celebrated Hallowe'en by listening to Hallowe'en stories by the light of a Jack-o'-Lantern. William Ludwig and Dorothy Vanzant had costumes which were judged the most original. Doris McNinney entertained with a tap dance, and other costumed children told stories. All of the class took part in Hallowe'en games and read their Hallowe'en booklets, the result of a class-room Hallowe'en project. Third grade children guessed as to the identity of those members of the class who came in costume. Next came stories in keeping with the Hallowe'en season.
A guessing game ended the entertainment. Finally came the awarding of prizes. The following were the winners: Solomon Beatty, in the guessing game; Grace Biglow for being the best dressed and George Whitcoe for requiring the most time to be identified.

HOME

Home means more than four walls, infinitely more. Anyone can build or buy four walls and fill them with inanimate things, but it requires love to make a home. There are few words in any language more beautiful, more full of meaning than the word home.

It matters not whether the abode is "parlor, bedroom and bath" or whether it is a stately mansion surrounded by landscaped acres. If the hearts therein are right, it is a home in the beautiful and enduring sense.

Home is the place where those who dwell therein find contentment and enjoyment, rest and inspiration to do the greater things in life. Home is the place, above all others, where love, sincerity, honesty and good cheer should reign supreme. Home is the place where one's friends may share those joys, and sorrows, too, if they come, and with the intimate members of the family, possess the happiness that is sure to abide there.

These truths need emphasis nowadays. Many influences are at work to destroy homes and alienate affections from them. Whatever the counter attractions may be, they in time lose their appeal, and those who have followed them come to see there is no contentment in them.

One vital reason for having a home is to be able to share it with friends, to be able to extend a generous hospitality and good cheer.

Just to show the state of mind some people have worked themselves into, a feminist says this country needs a woman president.

READ THIS FIRST

Katharine Faring, granddaughter of a Russian prince, is the rightful owner of the missing Czarina rubies of sinister fame and fabulous value. Trying to recover them for her, Paul Federoff is murdered at Monksilver, a vacant country house, and Frank Severn is kidnapped and carried there unconscious. His servant, Creyke, is murdered.

Jim Wynter, friend of Severn and of Katharine, tries to rescue Severn, is injured and drugged, and awakens in the home of mysterious Dr. Martell. Recovering, he takes Katharine and his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Grayson, to Severn's country home, Beggar's Court. There a search reveals a concealed stairway and a locked door in the ruins of an ancient chapel. The stub of one of Dr. Martell's cigarettes lies on the stairs.

NOW GO ON

CHAPTER XXX
"Anyway, I'm willing enough for that door to be opened," continued Sant. "I fancy old Coombes, the blacksmith here, could do the trick, pick the lock for us."

"And there's no time like now," said Wynter. "What about driving to his place straightaway and bringing him back with us?"

"By all means," said Sant heartily. The three men made their way out into the open and walked to Sant's car.

"You motored over, I suppose?" said the latter, as they drove into the village. "But I didn't see any sign of your car."

"Oh, my wife and Miss Faring drove on to that house, Manorways," Bill Grayson explained. "We rather think of taking it furnished for a month whilst our house in town is in the hands of painters."

OBJECTION

Sant glanced across at him quickly. "Coming down to this part of the world, are you? Oh, I'm afraid Mrs. Grayson will find it deadly dull, my dear fellow. Surely you could find a better alternative? I speak frankly, because I'm thinking of your wife set down for four solid weeks in these monotonous wilds. What's wrong with a month in some cheery hotel in town? Know which I'd prefer."

"Well, a month isn't long, anyway," said Bill carelessly.

He did not tell Sant the real reason why he and Jim were coming down to Manorways, their plans of pursuing secret investigations into the Beggar's Court mystery. They had a very definite reason for not taking Sant into their confidence.

The car drew up outside the blacksmith's shop. Sant jumped down and strode inside in search of Coombes. A few minutes later he and an elderly man emerged.

"Then I'm to come to Beggar's Court at 5 o'clock, sir, to tackle that lock?"

"That's the idea, Coombes," Sant glanced at his watch. "Half an hour from now."

"You can't come at once?" Wynter said to the old man.

The old fellow did not answer; and Sant explained that Coombes was almost stone-deaf.

"He tells me he's busy on a job he must finish first," Sant added quickly, as Wynter was about to shout the question again. "But after all half an hour more or less doesn't matter, eh? You're going on to Manorways now, I suppose? Bring the ladies back with you, of course—oh, I insist. I'll see that Martin has some tea ready. Well, I hope you're satisfied now, Wynter?" he added with a laugh.

In half an hour... yet all the same Wynter chafed a little even with hits wars and floods. After reaching China they stopped at every seaport town, and were sometimes given liberty to go on land. In the towns that are inundated by the floods nothing can be seen but the tops of some of the homes. The poverty and separation of families are pitiful in those parts. Mr. Wilkie expects before returning to see some of the beauty of China.

GAME WARDENS EXPLAIN LAWS TO HUNTERS

Try to Prevent Violations During Season About to Open

GIVE IMPORTANT POINTS

The purpose of this article is to clarify in the minds of those persons who are interested in the hunting of Pennsylvania's game, the more important lawful and unlawful methods of hunting. It is submitted by the game wardens.

At a recent meeting of the local game wardens it was decided to attempt a method whereby they could prevent game law violations, not by prosecuting the offender after the act was committed and thereby making an example of him, but by showing just what the hunter should not do to save himself the expense and humiliation of a prosecution.

The following are some of the more important lawful and unlawful methods of hunting:

It is unlawful for any person to shoot at any game unless it is plainly visible to him, or to dig, cut or smoke live game out of its den or place of refuge.

It is unlawful to hunt for or attempt to catch or kill or wound game of any kind through the use of any automatic gun or fire arm, or a swivel gun, or revolver or short arm of any kind, or air-rifle or the apparatus known as a silencer or from an automobile or vehicle or boat, propelled by any mechanical power, or to set, lay or prepare to use any trap, snare, net, pitfall, or pen, or to make use of any artificial light, battery, etc.

It is unlawful to hunt for or chase or kill any game upon the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, or between one-half hour before sunset and one-half hour after sunrise of the day following, Eastern Standard Time, except ruffed grouse which shall be hunted only between sunrise and sunset and that raccoons shall be hunted for and killed only between one hour before sunset and one hour after sunrise the day following, except raccoons taken in traps.

It is unlawful for any person to knowingly use any game that has been unlawfully killed or taken, or to knowingly aid or assist in concealing unlawfully killed game or to knowingly use in possession with intent to use or conceal the same or any part thereof.

Summing the above up, only game that is plainly visible to the hunter can be shot at or taken, with a rifle or shotgun, fired from the shoulder, or by the use of a bow and arrow, while the hunter is walking or standing outside of a vehicle propelled by any mechanical device, between one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset, excepting ruffed grouse and raccoons, as noted above, and that any person connected with, either by handling killing or using unlawfully killed game is just as guilty as the person who killed it.

With regards to Trespassing: The law reads that it shall be unlawful for any person to willfully enter upon any land where the owner or owners thereof, have caused to be prominently posted upon said land, printed notices that the land is private property and warning all persons from trespassing thereon, under the penalty of the law.

The trespass proposition has been the cause of a large amount of controversy. No satisfactory solution has been found and none will be as long as there is game to be hunted and there are hunters who have no land of their own to hunt upon. It is a deplorable fact that a few unsportsmanlike hunters, having no regards for the property of others, have caused a great amount of trouble and are the cause of the majority of posted lands today.

Although the trespass law is not a game law and the game warden cannot enforce it he suggests the following methods to help overcome the difficulty of both land owners and hunters.

The real sportsman who has good intentions first drive to the house and ask to hunt instead of sneaking on the back end and when apprehended ask permission to hunt or run like a deer for the fence. In the majority of cases a farmer, when approached in this manner will give his permission.

Any hunter while trespassing upon land is required by law to show his license certificate to the owner or employee upon whose land he is trespassing, on demand. The penalty for refusal being $20.

It is unlawful to shoot within 150 yards of any inhabited dwelling or the outbuildings connected therewith, without first obtaining permission; or to shoot any caliber gun larger than a 22 short, either promiscuously or for target practice, except on a target range or against a properly constructed backstop. It is unlawful to shoot into live trees.

The above has been written to help prevent the common violations which are caused by the ignorance of the law.

There are some hunters whose intentions are to violate the law deliberately or are willing to take the chance of getting away with the violation.

Such violations as deliberately shooting towards houses or other people, or using automobiles and other illegal devices to get their game, or shooting game after dark when it has gone to roost, or hunting on Sunday when the real sportsman leaves his gun in the corner or going out before the season comes in, or using firearms while intoxicated are the follows who give the game warden his troubles.

This deliberate violator is killing more than his share of game, getting it in an unfair and unlawful way and endangering the lives of the rest of the men in the field. He does not have thought for the future when he shoots a female pheasant, thereby killing not one bird but probably twenty birds which that hen would have produced the following year.

It is the duty, not only of the game warden, but of every real sportsman to take steps to keep this man out of the field and preserve the sport for the real sportsman.

If it happens to be your opportunity to witness such devastating means of hunting, it is your duty to report to the nearest officer of the violation. The hunting license number and if possible the car license number if telephoned to the nearest game warden will be your share in helping to make gunning a real, clean, safe sport.

The names of some of the local game wardens and telephone numbers are as follows:

Bucks County District Warden: Warren Fretz, Doylestown 424. Some of his assistants are: R. H. Anderson, Langhorne 108-J-3; Walter Carver, Newtown 33; Daniel Potter, Bristol 7811; Joseph Croner, Hulmeville 719-J-5; L. B. Stackhouse, Morrisville 2-7256.

the manner of organization of the corporation which he represents, and something was told of the "trade rules". Many motion picture companies are affiliated with the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., through which the whole movement of the business passes.

"One of my jobs is to guess big," Mr. DeBra added. "There are two ways my job can be accomplished in the manner I wish it to. One is to guess right, and the other is to make my guess come true."

Mrs. Arthur F. Hagar, of Langhorne, president of the county federation, was in charge of the two meetings of the day, and at the morning session introduced Mrs. Charles S. Musser, state chairman, county federation and club extension. "The Club Woman's Challenge" was the topic selected by Mrs. Musser. "We find ourselves living in a great and wonderful world" was one of her first statements. This age was referred to as a "push-button" age. "The world is suffering from mal-adjustment," remarked the representative of the state organization. "We are wondering what is happening to it and what is going to happen. History is a little more than a changing civilization. Each change means an adjustment, which greatly alters the life of the individual." Referring to the many inventions of the last few decades, she added: "We have become completely confused and bewildered. It's a mad race between our adjustment, just now. I wish you would think of these trying times as an adjustment and not as a depression." In part she went on to say that "The time has come when a woman can no longer hide behind a bridge table, in her home, or behind the watchful protection of her husband. Each has tasks to do in this world today. The woman's club should be to a community what a mother is to a home, for at this particular time it can give to the community that which nothing else can."

The program was replete with interesting numbers. The invocation by Rev. Warren Smith, pastor of the church in which the meetings were held, was followed by the county song given by the group. Other parts were: Salute to flag; address of welcome by Mrs. William Tinsman, president of the New Hope Woman's Club; response by Mrs. Hagar; minutes by Mrs. Henry E. Anker, of Bristol, who is completing the term of office of Mrs. John A. Moyer, Bristol, resigned, Miss Anna Cliff, Langhorne, gave the corresponding secretary's report.

Vocal solos by Mrs. J. Howard Kooker, of New Hope, included: "Flower Maiden" (Weller), and "I Heard You Singing" (Coates).

Following reports on the scholarship fund, a motion was passed that $25 be donated from the club's general fund toward such. During the winter months the question of continuing a scholarship for some worthy young woman in the home economics course at State College, will be taken up, reports to be made in the spring.

Suggestions were given by Mrs. George Howard Cliff, Langhorne, as to a suitable George Washington Bicentennial Memorial to be placed at the Washington Crossing Memorial Park by the federation. Clubs throughout the county are to consider the suggestions and report later the choice and the sum they wish to donate.

The work carried on by means of the Mothers' Assistance Fund was brought before the meeting by Mrs. William C. Ryan, of Doylestown, and Mrs. Louis Epstein, of Bristol. The latter told of the follow-up work in various parts of Bucks county, held in various towns, teeth and eyes of children being given attention. Following the suggestion of Mrs. Irvin James, Doylestown, the federation women went on record, recommending the name of "Delaware Valley State Park" to the park commission in charge of the section of the canal recently taken over by the state.

The problem of combatting tuberculosis among children was placed before the women by C. F. Bazington, field secretary of the Pennsylvania State Tuberculosis Society. Mr. Bazington spoke of the prevalence and control of the "white plague." "There are 1132 suspicious cases in Bucks County," was part of the information given. "We have 90 per cent chance of checking such and preventing its spread if action is taken immediately," said the state society officer. He urged support of the sale of Christmas seals which enlarges funds for fighting the disease throughout the country. The group was told that there were twice as many deaths 25 years ago in the United States from tuberculosis as there are today. "So you see the work of education has helped prevent the spread of this disease, and proved to people they can combat it with almost certain good results if they are sincere in their efforts."

Mrs. Henry C. Parry, of Langhorne, chairman of the garden section of the county federation, announced the club winners in the flower show of the day. In the arrangement of bouquets and baskets of flowers, and potted plants, in the lower room of the edifice, Langhorne Sorosis had the greatest number of entries; New Hope Women's Club being second. Langhorne Sorosis likewise gained the highest number of points in the judging. Thine, winning club has had a garden club associated with it for the past three years. Of the 16 clubs affiliated with the county organization, 10 had exhibits of flowers.

Other features of the second meeting of the day included: Vocal solos, "Passing By" (Purcell), "Song of Joy" (Doudy), and "Good-Bye" (Tosti), by Mrs. C. J. Koller, of Solebury; and remarks regarding the disarmament conference to be held at Geneva in 1932, by Mrs. John Follinsbee, New Hope. The federation adopted a resolution submitted by Miss Marian Longshore, Langhorne, favoring participation by the United States in said conference for further reduction of armaments. The resolution is to be sent by the club to President Hoover.

The Yardley Civic Club will entertain on the occasion of the semi-annual meeting next spring.
